Emma Cornelia Morgan Simpson, widow of William Simpson, Jr., who at one time was president of the Edlystone Manufacturing Company, died at her home on Lancaster pike, Overbrook, yesterday morning.

At the same time that the sports were in progress the Rev. Dr. William B. Forney, pastor of Mount Vernon Baptist Church, of Manayunk, criticized members of the Park Commission.

"Why does the Park Commission forbid religious services in Fairmount Park on Sundays, but permit the playing of baseball and tennis?" asked Mr. Forney.

Doctor Forney was referring to the religious services conducted by the Rev. Dr. James B. Ely at Lemon Hill. These Sunday afternoon meetings were held by the Lemon Hill Association for a dozen years until the Park Commission refused a permit for their continuance.

Doctor Forney said the Ministerial Union's committee was "insulted" when it visited the Park Commission with reference to the action.

Mrs. Simpson is survived by one son, W. P. Simpson.

BASS AND JULY 1—NOT ANENT
MUSIC AND RUM—BUT FISH!

Funny Tribe Expected to Cavort Most Opulently or Something at Opening of Season

Oh—you Isak Walton—Bass!

Unless the Legislature changes the state fish code, the Pennsylvania bass season will open on July 1.

Reports reaching the State Department of Fisheries indicate there will be an abundance of the great game fish, and that there will be bass caught in more counties than in years. According to Commissioner Nathan R. Butler, the reports on bass are unusually favorable from the counties in the Susquehanna basin, and in some of the eastern counties "planting" of young bass has been unusually successful. Fine specimens have been seen where no bass were to be found a few years ago. The bass season runs under the present fish code from July 1 to December 31, and in the last two years, hundreds of thousands of young bass have been distributed throughout the state with co-operation of sportsmen.

The hatcheries this year have been successful with bass and more will be sent out later in the summer. The pike, perch and pickerel seasons will also open July 1, and fair reports have been received regarding the fish.

The trout season has been interrupted, especially in central and southern Pennsylvania by continued rains and high water in many small streams. This season will end in August, and many trout fishermen have reported to the Capitol that trout have been thriving where placed the last year.

The department distributed more yearling trout last year than ever before, and is planning extensive "planting" this fall.

Employees Need Exercise

Dr. George J. Fisher, another of the more individuals in the country has believed the industrial employee.

"The crying need of healthful recreation and exercise among these employees is just beginning to be recognized," he said, "now that social unrest and reconstruction problems face us, and the tendency to give this class a period of rest is more than ever apparent among those higher up. I predict that within five years every large industrial organization will have incorporated a system of recreation for its employees, and in every public school there will be a compulsory system of physical training."

"The popularity of sports among the masses is shown by the fact that in the trials for the Inter-Allied meet to be held at Paris this week more than seven and a half million have been recorded in the different elimination events. I do not see the wisdom nor necessity of sending a team of stars from this side to compete in the meet."

George E. Draper said that attendance and interest in professional baseball and similar national institutions will not be hurt by the coming spirit of mass play, the idea of participation by all, which he said is beginning to sweep the country. In fact, their popularity will be increased," he declared, "for the fan will have a more personal and intimate knowledge and appreciation of the physical skill involved, and more champions will be developed."

Dancing to Increase

"The popularity of dancing will also increase, for it is one of the most graceful and pleasurable forms of exercise when properly conducted," he added.

A. G. Bugbee announced that the Y. M. C. A. is to begin a new system of physical training for its members this fall. "We expect to make a careful examination of each man," he said, "note whatever physical deficiencies he has, and then offer or suggest a course of exercise which will meet that special need. We plan to do away with general training and attend to the specific needs of each man."

TENANTS ASK MAYOR'S AID

Believe Smith Should Issue Proclamation Against Profiteering

Tenants who have been ordered out of their homes that speculators might sell the houses at an exorbitant price cheered yesterday afternoon when Richard P. McSorley, an attorney, asserted that Mayor Smith should issue a proclamation against profiteers. The demand was made at a meeting of the Mount Moriah district of the Tenants' Protective Association in the Bonn Theatre, Sixty-fourth street and Woodland avenue.

Mr. McSorley declared the tenants could circumvent the speculators by not moving, and by barring out the costables. He also urged his hearers not to buy a house at this time, because such action would make it harder for other tenants.

The same advice was given by M. H. Biez, secretary of the West Philadelphia branch of the association, who said money should not be borrowed now for buying a house. He added there were 2000 empty houses in this city, bought by speculators.

URGES ABOLITION OF TRAINING TABLE

Noted Athletic Director Says It Injures Athletics and Is Undemocratic

DANCING TO INCREASE

Training tables at universities and colleges should be abandoned, in the opinion of Herman Meyer, former president of the A. A. U., who attended the conference of physical instructors at the Central Y. M. C. A. here last week.

"Training tables at the various universities and colleges throughout the country should be abolished," said Mr. Meyer. "They create a feeling of separation and distinction between the athletes and the rest of the student body which is neither democratic nor advisable. They also tend to abuse and work a great hardship on the coach in the performance of his main duty, the technical training of the men."

The same advice was given by M. H. Biez, secretary of the West Philadelphia branch of the association, who said money should not be borrowed now for buying a house. He added there were 2000 empty houses in this city, bought by speculators.
